

Aardvark, Homeless

Silent rejection
whenever you see my face but deep inside
your glances burn
liquid release
is running down my throat deceitful warmth
fullfills my bones
No place to rest, no home to stay no life to live, no role to play the fear of living day by day No god exists that I can pray society that I obey the poison leads me to decay Forging my will to stand this test of time throughout the land
search for my fate sometimes I feel ephemeral hope in me rising but expect my aim beyond the wall
No place to rest, no home to stay
no voice to hear, no word to say all colors fading into grey
No god exists that I can pray
I can't afford the price to pay my low existance goes its way Homeless
homeless
a destiny right between your eyes.