Ace Of Base, He Decides

Can't you hear them whispering Around you all the time Can't you tell the difference between Things when you're in love I hear your voice is trembling Everytime when he's around Your detached engagements In the things I say means love, oh

He decides whether you should smile Whether you should cry Whether you should be happy He decides whether you should smile Whether you should cry Whether you should be sad

If he doesn't love you
You're afraid that you can't go on Living without loving
Never makes a person strong, no
If he really loves you
Let him show you that instead
I will be here with you
'Cause I know that you're afraid of love

He decides whether you should smile Whether you should cry Whether you should be happy He decides whether you should smile Whether you should cry Whether you should be sad

You'll never change my mind my friend Don't let that feeling go This love might change your world around In time you'll have to know, oh yeah

Whether you should go

Oh yeah

Whether you should be happy Whether you should cry Whether you should be happy

He decides Whether you

I know that He decides
