

Ace Troubleshooter, Driving Against Velocities Extreme

Driving against velocities extreme, makes you wonder why you're going nowhere fast
Slipping backwards maybe and you wonder
Yeah you wonder, "How long is this gonna last?"
Eyes blurry and you're seeing through a mirror dimly, yeah it clouds your mind
Feelings of joy and a mindless toy, you choose to slip away for some time

Don't you realize that you're drowning?
The way it is you'll always be frowning

Cluttered heaps of trouble and you see
Yeah you see that the eyes of disarray are upon you
What pulls your strings really makes you think
Pseudo-happiness envelops you

And I feel torn apart, yeah it rips at my heart

But I know He's got an eye on you, plan to pull you through
All you need to do is meet him there
Take your worries, shove them up your really want to see you meet Him there

Driving against velocities extreme
Wind in your hair makes you think you're going somewhere
So clear out all the noise, hear the One True Voice
I really want to see you meet Him there
