Aching Beauty, Steps

Now I tend to a day dream
Define a place where I could merge in
Hide away, and never let steps in the sand
Sublimate all what is
To free myself from the grip of time
Start again
Wish a swelling wind

Refuse the new habits and behaviours Obey the core of my will Reshuffle around, even closer friends Leave the undesired behind

Disclose my scars instead of hiding them Regenerated by fresh light After childhood and the loss of illusions Segue into the third chapter

I'll sail upstream back to my birthplaces Hills of the Rhne would be my horizons Fall to my knees, hands in the mossy grass Light a bonfire under the summer solstice sun

Assessing all things done
Repent for those which should not have been
Start a quest, for a better being
Evolution leading me
As if I were what I am to be
Affirmative
Live a self-made way of being me