

Adagio, Chosen

I'm lost in nowhere, I cannot see
What's inside of me
Some changes appear I can feel
I'm getting alive

My eyes are wide
Opened to this brand new world
I'm not supposed to bleed

Only my eyes can see your world, like it is
Blinded by innocence, see the moon fading out to black
Leave out your mind
And if I am the chosen one, I will try
And making you understand, the silence can sometimes be your friend
Whisper your fears

Winter's breath leaves a cold leaf on my face
My believing thoughts
Decrease in shapes of ghostly sadness
I've failed out of weakness

My eyes are wide
Opened to this brand new world
I'm not supposed to bleed

Only my eyes can see your world, like it is
Blinded by innocence, see the moon fading out to black
Leave out your mind
And if I am the chosen one, I will try
And make you understand, the silence can sometimes be your friend
Whisper your fears