Everything Takes Me Back
It's a song on the radio
It's your picture on the wall in my bedroom
It's any one of a million memories
Girl, everything takes me back but you

It's every place that we've ever been It's running into someone we both knew Or it's the face of a total stranger Girl, everything takes me back but you

I've called you up I've begged and pleaded left love letters at your door Though I broke your heart you gotta believe it hurt me even more So what's it gonna take, what ya wanna hear Girl, I think I've paid my dues And it might be just but it don't seem fair that everything takes me back but you

It's a sound or it's the silence
It's the thought of what I've done
I can't undo
Or it's the dream I can't put behind me
Girl, everything takes me back but you

I've called you up I've begged and pleaded left love letters at your door Though I broke your heart you gotta believe it hurt me even more So what's it gonna take, what ya wanna hear Girl, I think I've paid my dues And it might be just but it don't seem fair that everything takes me back but you

It's the night or it's the morning It's the thunder rolling in before it rains Or it's a long, long, long, long stretch of highway Girl, it's nothing and it's everything, it's everything

Everything takes me back but you Girl, everything takes me back but you
