Adolphson Falk, Sheer Attraction

We're lying here just contemplating While the heavenly bodies are rotating Held in orbit by the powers of sheer attraction And in this universal vastness You and I still cling to this madness Kept together by the forces of sheer attraction Earth moves forever On its eternal course Your limbs entwined in mine Caught up in gravitational force Our beating hearts Swell our heated veins Unite two solar systems On one relentless flame You and I In the force of sheer attraction You and I And the forces of sheer attraction Your fingers - searching and drifting Arouse me with their dancing and shifting Awaken in me forces I cannot fathom And far above this place where we're lying Two great stars in space are colliding Brought together by forces of sheer attraction Earth moves forever On its eternal course Your limbs entwined in mine Caught up in gravitational force Our beating hearts Swell our heated veins Unite two solar systems On one relentless flame You and I In the force of sheer attraction You and I And the forces of sheer attraction