

Aerosmith, Legendary Child

Legendary Child
I'll tell you what I'm talking about

Making love at 17, yeah we had the luck
But we traded them toys for other joys
And we didn't give a fuc*

I took a chance at the high school dance
Never knowing wrong from right
And that same show 40 years ago
Being televised tonight

Cause getting from inside my head to the Taj Mahal
I went from never having none to want to have it all

I wanna keep that dream alive
And eat that honey from the hive
With all the noise and all the clamour
No surprise, you know I'm ever a
Legendary Child
Legendary Child
I think a what I'm trying to say is

Sticks and stones may break your bones
At least they'll rearrange
I'll drop a dime, every time,
I get myself a nickel's change

They say we don't know jack
At the Plant we proved them wrong
We traded in our soul tonight and sold them for a song

And if Satan had a lady friend, it was Mary Jane
I never wondered why she tried to drive us quite insane

And how we got that golden fleece
From toking on that pipe of peace
Yea as far as I can see
There is a God 'cause I got me a
