

Agent Felix, My Only Everything

following footsteps of my thoughts they start our scattered but each one leads straight back to you reach in pull half my heart out it cant hurt cause you already broke it in two it sucks when seeing you or hearing your voice only makes me miss you more poured my heart into this pen and pour back out in this letter I'm writing to you it tells you of my favorite things and all of the memories i have of you infatuation with someone can create a reason that their the one you're meant for no matter how stupid the reason it always finds a way to take control misdirected once again and i landed on my face a sweet shot of you followed by a bitter chase

Those nights we said our last goodbye the same nights you made me cry cant you see that you are my only everything those dreams that i used to call ours and thought about for hours what would I say if i could say anything i guess i'd have to say goodbye please erase the memory and numb the pain i feel your cutting through me as if your words were a blade of steel