Alien Ant Farm, Sarah Wynn

Remeber when we were young? We'd smoke cigarettes behind the store. Pimpin' beers for fun. Back then I loved you.

Making you almost cry under Louisiana sky. Never thought you'd fly. We all miss you.

What the hell were you thinking? I can't help you know, Sarah. Why the hell were you shooting up? Now you're coming down, Sarah.

I know it's been some time But now you're back I'll try to help. It seems I wasted time, cause only you can help yourself.

A calm and collected mind. I talked to your parents yesterday. It seems they're doing fine. They're worried about you.

What the hell were you thinking? I can't help you know, Sarah. Why the hell were you shooting up? Now you're coming down, Sarah.

Habits are hard to break.
I don't know how much I can take from you.
I guess that I'll never relate.
I really don't know what to make of you.

We're worried about you.

What the hell were you thinking? I can't help you know, Sarah. Why the hell were you shooting up? Now you're coming down, Sarah.

What the hell were you thinking? I can't help you know, Sarah. Why the hell were you shooting up? Now you're coming down, Sarah.
