

All, Drive Away

All
Miscellaneous
Drive Away

Tears fall down and wash the dirt away
Sky opens up to cry a while
Too many tortured memories to pass the time
The sun never shows its face
Steel belts leave their tracks along the way
Radio sings forgotten songs
Summer always seems to be so far away
The sun never shows its face
Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world
Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts
At night the highway seems so never ending
The moon comes out to light the way
The highway signs glare back and blind your understanding
The sun never shows its face

Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world
Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts
Time flies by, we all wonder why
It takes time away to kill the pain
Hearts celebrate but always bend
You know it'll hurt until the end
Tonight the headlights shining through
There still time
For everything to change
Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world
Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts
Drive away, drive away from troubles of the world
Drive away, drive away from everything that hurts