Alter Bridge, Dying Light

here we go again it's coming on just like before the same iold sinking feeling pulls me down an endless hole the heavy lifting as I fret for what might be if this is the beginning of the end then let me dream in the eye of the srtorm from the moment we're born in the dying light we learn to live when we give in to the silent waves that crash inside

in the dying light we can begin to live again when we wake up to eternal life let this be an exercise in how to face your fears step into the realm of madness if you dare, my dear we are lost in the swim from the moment we're born in the dying light we learn to live when we give in to the silent waves that crash inside

in the dying light we can begin to live again when we wake up to eternal life

all that we need passes by until we concede and design this mortal coil into the light here we go again it's coming on just sinking feeling pulls me down an endless hole in the dying light we learn to live when we give in to the silent waves that crash inside

in the dying light we can begin to live again when we wake up to eternal life