Anathema, Regret

As I drift away... far away from you, I feel all alone in a crowded room, Thinking to myself "There's no escape from this fear regret loneliness... "

Visions of love and hate A collage behind my eyes Remnants of dying laughter Echoes of silent cries

I wish I didn't know now what I never knew then... Flashback Memories punish me once again. Sometimes I remember all the pain that I have seen. Sometimes I wonder what might have been...

Visions of love and hate A collage behind my eyes Remnants of dying laughter Echoes of silent cries

And sometimes I despair At who I've become I have to come to terms With what I've done

The bittersweet taste of fate We can't outrun the past Destined to find an answer A strength I never lost I know there is a way, My future is not set, For the tide has turned But still I never learned to live without regret.