Angra, Never Understand [7:48]

Angra Angels Cry Never Understand [7:48] (Matos, Bittencourt)

White gold, a morning came Sunny cold, reflecting light Unknown songs

Fresh water gush licks the lime Sprinkling crowns of silence The face wet from the moistened dew

Wind takes the sight Around the meadow Playing kindly Silver dropped wine That flows inside a sleeping hand...

Desperation fills the air [In your heart lies the dust of the anger] Madness knocking on my back [Chiming bells have announced the new day]

My courage lies someplace where time forgot to send me [now where are you going?] [now where are you going now?] Someday they'll mark your sins like torture on your back

I wonder why My mind is tight Like stormy weather And so it seems That little steps would take forever

Oh, never understand... We're like mad horses heading for the bend This place I'm standing here Made it on my own Moored my life to never let it go...

I wonder why My mind is tight Like stormy weather And so it seems That little steps would take forever

Never understand...
We're like mad horses
heading for the bend
This place I'm standing here
Made it on my own
Moored my life to never let it go...

All my life I'll be the away I won't forget All my life is never understand

