

Another Mask, Ember

Last November the lights have been removed
And I remember everything but you
I'm falling apart for so many reasons just to stop right here
And every day is the same, my mind is broken like a puzzle game
And here we go
One, two, three
Turn the page and see there's no more me
Burning pictures won't help, you have been overwhelmed with your lies
And there's your demise
I'm falling apart
Killing yesterdays, seems we've split our ways
Well this is goodbye
I can't stand this mess, take back everything that you have made
And it makes me sick that I am the last
To know about lies that you've said
So nothing can stop me now, let's tear the past to pieces
And this time I will scream loud so everyone will hear this Every moment picture's fading slowly
Letting it go won't hurt me more
Last November the lights have been removed
And I remember everything but you
Just like ember, my heart is burning through
And I remember everything but you