Antony & The Johnsons, Deeper Than Love

My heart is broken Here in the cup of my hands From between cracked fingers Old blood spills

I had to move on, baby For when I tasted my own tears They were too sweet And I knew that I had come to close

And I have tried to shine in the darkness Entertaining vanities in vain

Fall deeper Fall deeper

My heart is broken Here in the cup of my hands From between cracked fingers Old blood spills

I had to move on, baby For when I tasted my own tears They were too sweet And I knew that I had come to close

And I have tried to shine in the darkness Entertaining vanities in vain But now won't you come with me As I open my eyes

And hold on Hold on And let go Let go Let the virus live a life Hold on And hold on And let go Let go And fall deeper Even than love Even than love Hold on And fall deeper Even than love Even than love Even than love...
