Architects, Broken Cross

God only knows why we were born to burn

If God is my witness, he'll see that all is not well Christ, what a sight for sore eyes Looking down on us, all the children that you despise

God only knows why we were born to burn God only knows why we were born to burn

A bullet in the neck doesn't feel much like love A message of rejection sent from above No flags, no holy books I'll be in hell with the misunderstood

The sons and daughters that you wished to forget A desperate picture of god's regret Are we perfect mistakes? Or almighty fuck ups? One thing's for sure, he doesn't fucking love us

He doesn't fucking love us

Hate must weigh on you like a broken cross Hate, the dividing line we'll never step across

Outcast and reject Outcast and reject

Father, father, how I've let you down A fucking tyrant in a hollow crown Father, father, how I've let you down A fucking tyrant in a hollow crown

The sons and daughters that you wished to forget A desperate picture of god's regret Are we perfect mistakes? Or almighty fuck ups? One thing's for sure, he doesn't fucking love us

He doesn't fucking love us He doesn't fucking love us