Archive, Head Heavy

Every head spans a mile Letting out a sigh Breathing in hollow dirt Follow to be sure

Not to miss the fading light Listen at the door Every step another stain Well thank God for that

You escaped without a name You made it to the edge Keeping in, creeping out Live your head heavy