

Avenged Sevenfold, Set Me Free

There's a calmness to the air outside watch the Sun color the site of a morning sky but all I see are clouds of darkest grey A full eclipse to veil the start of another day hear the laughter at the children smile hold a newborn close and dream for a little while but all I hear is death knock on my door and think of painful journeys or young must endure

set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight

touch the water with your own 2 hands let the freedom bell bring calm to a troubled land but all I feel are my 2 feet in chains I know the system, but I can't figure out the game

set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight

take it all away from me take it all away

set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight

set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight
set me free tonight
