Bare Jr., Shine

I forget dreams and lies I try and I try Think you should know Just what I like You should by now, somehow, Be living without I would rather shine in your eyes Hold me up, I'm coming down Headfirst for the ground Running right by my side, Till the end I would rather shine I would rather shine in your eyes I would rather shine I would rather shine in your eyes As you walk with me on this one way track All that you give, I won't give back So much of myself I hide from me I want to be all that you say you see in me I would rather shine I would rather shine I would rather shine in your eyes I would rather shine I would rather shine

I would rather shine in your eyes
