Big Head Todd And The Monsters, Hangover

She could not control her first love With the politics of suicide Violent and tortured lover With nowhere to run She learned to turn inside

Babe you've got to hide you're wounded Shame to leave, you're already gone You're slow to change, but you're still willing Ah may you run like the lions Into the dawn

You're driving fine tomorrow You're still drunk on yesterday's wine The sirens pining I will follow I will follow you till I leave myself behind