

Billie Eilish, Everybody Dies

[Verse 1]

Everybody dies, surprise, surprise
We tell each other lies, sometimes, we try
To make it feel like we might be right
We might not be alone
Be alone

[Verse 2]

"Everybody dies," that's what they say
And maybe, in a couple hundred years, they'll find another way
I just wonder why you'd wanna stay
If everybody goes
You'd still be alone

[Verse 3]

I don't wanna cry, some days I do
But not about you
It's just a lot to think about
The world I'm used to
The one I can't get back, at least not for a while
I sure have a knack for seein' life more like a child
It's not my fault, it's not so wrong to wonder why
Everybody dies, and when will I?

[Verse 4]

You oughta know
That even when it's time, you might not wanna go
But it's okay to cry and it's alright to fall
But you are not alone

[Outro]

You are not unknown
