

Billy Joel, Turn the Lights Back On

Billy Joel prezentuje piosenkę "Turn the Lights Back On" (premiera 1 lutego 2024 r.).

Please open the door
Nothing is different, we've been here before
Pacing these halls
Trying to talk over the silence
And pride sticks out its tongue
Laughs at the portrait that we've become
Stuck in a frame
Unable to change, I was wrong

I'm late, but I'm here right now
Though I used to be romantic, I forgot somehow
Time can make you blind
But I see you now as we're layin' in the darkness
Did I wait too long to turn the lights back on?

Here, stuck on a hill
Outsiders inside the home that we built
The cold settles in
It's been a long winter of indifference
And maybe you love me, maybe you don't Maybe you'll learn to, maybe you won't
You've had enough, but I won't give up on you

I'm late, but I'm here right now
And I'm tryin' to find the magic that we lost somehow
Maybe I was blind
But I see you now as we're layin' in the darkness
Did I wait too long to turn the lights back on?

I'm late, but I'm here right now
Is there still time for forgiveness?
Won't you tell me how? I can't read your mind
But I see you now, as we're layin' in the darkness
Did I wait too long to turn the lights back on?
I'm here right now
Yes, I'm here right now
Lookin' for forgiveness
I can see as we're layin' in the darkness
Yeah, as we're layin' in the darkness
Did I wait too long to turn the lights back on?