

Blessed By A Broken Heart, OMG!

Honestly, what sense does it make to defame a thing you won't acknowledge When all is good and well, you'll shower yourself with pride
When all is good and well, you'll still deny him
When tragedy strikes
you're so quick to point the finger
And you'll blame it all on my God
The blame game has gone on too long does it make you feel like a winner
And you'll blame it all on my God
Honestly, what sense does it make
to defame a thing you won't acknowledge
Still you curse his name and use it in vain
Still you curse his name and use it in vain
When tragedy strikes
you're so quick to point the finger
And you'll blame it all on my God
The blame game has gone on too long
does it make you feel like a winner
And you'll blame it all on my God
Say your prayers
When the end comes will you put your faith in man?
The end is drawing near
As you watch with grinding teeth and witness the end of man Know it, it's not too late to fall to your knees and ask for mercy
As you cry out OH MY GOD