

Bob Schneider, God Is My Friend

i can see god on a cloud in the sky
on top of the world
watching the world roll by
with a grat big grin
and some good cocaine
jesus by his side
in the pouring rain

cause i can believe
in the inbetween
what can't be said
and only seen
when you close your eyes
and open your heart
and everything you know
just falls apart

i can see god
in italian shoes
with a beard and a gun and a case of the blues smoking a cigarette
drinking coors light
with teeth so white
they light up the night

cause i can believe
in the inbetween
what can't be said
and only seen
when you close your eyes
and open your heart
and everything you know
just falls apart

i can see god
on a big white bed
too much time on his hands too much stuff in his head hanging otu doing
whatever come round
hanging out
and getting down

cause i can believe
in the inbetween
what can't be said
and only seen
when you close your eyes
and open your heart
and everything you know
just falls apart

and i can believe what can't be known for sure the things that might be the things that never were and still not know
a thing in the end
and still believe that god is my friend