Bobby Womack, Whatever Happened To The Tin

If you see me running through some streets in life Baby it?s alright, don?t even pay me no mind I?m just looking for, for my yesterday So my only memories, I watch them fade and fade away

The night will come and the dawn will fall Put that falling bird, put it back in its next And the bird would sing, sing out loud Whoa, sing out loud, throw whispers I always do something to make her cry Like yeah, tear her castle down And I know it?s like lollipops, lollipops swirling through the rain

Pressed again our gentle minds

If you see me running through some streets in life Baby it?s alright, don?t even pay me no mind I?m just looking for, for my yesterday So my only memories, I watch them fade and fade away

Whoa, sweet baby mine, What ever happened to those good times Sweet, sweet baby mine What ever happened to those good times

People like to know that, I?m not by myself, I?m not alone.
