

Bonnie Tyler, Under Suspicion

(B. Tyler, P. Hopkins & P. Oxendale)

I put my trust in you 'cos I'm not the suspicious kind
But it seems to me that there's someone on your mind
And maybe I'm wrong and maybe there's some mistake
But I won't take any chances, I'm watching every move you make
I never felt so scared and helpless before
I wish I could believe in you but I just gotta be sure

You're under suspicion all of the time
You're under suspicion all of the time

When we talk I can see you can't look me straight in the eye
What's all the secrecy, you got me wondering why
Is it someone you met that could make you regret your decision
How could you forget all our plans and all our ambitions
Don't try to pull the wool right over my eyes
You think you're pretty smart but I can see right through your disguise

You're under suspicion all of the time
You're under suspicion all of the time

You're under suspicion all of the time
You're under suspicion all of the time
You're under suspicion all of the time
You're under suspicion

You're under suspicion all of the time
You're under suspicion all of the time