

BROODS, Never Gonna Change

You're pushing down on my shoulders
And emptying my lungs
An in a moment I'm older
In a moment, you've won
And you will escape me
Like it's nothing
Like words that never should have said
Now the stress comes to the surface
But all of the heroes are dead
And I hate that I can't say your name
Without feeling like I'm part of the blame
And it's never gonna feel quite the same
But it's never gonna change
And I hate that I'm always so young
Have me feeling like you are the one
And it's never gonna like it's time
Cause it's never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
While I dance here softly
You're next to me again
But we're still talking on each other
And tear it up the fragrance oozing
And I hate that I can't say your name
Without feeling like I'm part of the blame
And it's never gonna feel quite the same
But it's never gonna change
And I hate that I'm always so young
Have me feeling like you are the one
And it's never gonna like it's time
Cause it's never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
And I hate that I can't say your name
Without feeling like I'm part of the blame
And it's never gonna feel quite the same
But it's never gonna change
And I hate that I'm always so young
Have me feeling like you are the one
And it's never gonna like it's time
Cause it's never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
Cause it's never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
Never gonna change
