Camera Obscura, Country Mile

Silver birch against a Swedish sky The singer in the band made me want to cry We're all inside our own heads now We are leaving new friends, leaving this town And I wish you could be here with me I would show you off like a trophy The road it winds, it twists, it turns, oh my stomach burns

Once again I'll be the foolish one Thinking a blink of these lashes would make you come Don't you worry, don't get in a state I don't believe in true love anyway Oh, who's being pessimistic now? I could document this as our first, as our last row The more you look forlorn, the more to you I warm

I won't be seeing you for a long while I hope it's not as long as these country miles I feel lost I feel lost

No, I won't be seeing you for a long while I hope it's not as long as these country miles I feel lost I feel lost
