

Carly Rae Jepsen, Shadow

Don't say I didn't warn you
I'm something like a shadow
It takes a ghost to know one
And we're so good when we're in motion

I want to tell you something so hard to say
I think you might already know
I think about you almost every day
There's not a place that you don't go

And in no time
I'll be coming to you
I'll be flying to you
Moon on my shoulder

The architecture of this connection is your reflection always following me
City to city, heartbeat to heartbeat, body to body
I keep contemplating our situation
There's no escaping, your words are following me
City to city, heartbeat to heartbeat, you got me, you got me

Light flickers across the ocean
Daydreaming on an airplane
I kissed you, it was instinct
Sometimes it's better off to not think

I want to tell you something so hard to say
I think you might already know
I think about you almost every day
There's not a place that you don't go

Baby
The architecture of this connection is your reflection always following me
City to city, heartbeat to heartbeat, body to body
Baby
I keep contemplating our situation
There's no escaping, your words are following me
City to city, heartbeat to heartbeat, you got me, you got me

And in no time
The architecture of this connection is your reflection always following me
I'll be coming to you
City to city, heartbeat to heartbeat, body to body
I'll be flying to you
I keep contemplating our situation
There's no escaping, your words are following me
Moon on my shoulder
City to city, heartbeat to heartbeat, you got me, you got me

City to city, heartbeat to heartbeat
Heartbeat to heartbeat, you got me, you got me
