Cat Janice, Wishing I Was You

Lost her hair to modern medicine Dark walls she was hidden in Wish She could say it was a bold statement The compliments would hit her different

Live her life in a lullaby I hear her laughing and it makes me smile My god I'm in so deep She's beautiful on me

They told me I'd be fine One more moment of highs

They told me I'd have time One more moment alive

But I'm stuck
Somewhere deep in June
The door shut
On me with no view
Bad luck
If you only you knew
Human
Wondering what to do
Wishing I was you

Dry lip smiles sitting here with you Every second were somebody new Just a girl with a lot of dreams Not afraid of feeling everything

Summer suburbia memories By the river in the cool white sheets Right there, so fucking close I saw her glowing ghost

They told me I'd be fine One more moment alive

But I'm stuck
Somewhere deep in June
The door shut
On me with no view
Bad luck
If you only you knew
Human
Wondering what to do
Wishing I was you

Where I am is so scary but I see me so clearly

Just a girl with a lot of dreams Not afraid of feeling everything
