

Chuck Berry, The Love I Lost

After the sun goes down in the evening
That's when your leaving hurts me most
The times when you would nestle to me
And dwell within my heart so cold
Although you stand two steps away now
The distance seems from coast to coast

I often think of when I met you
Many times we kissed goodbye
Sometimes I dream we are together
Wake up moanin' your name thru sleepy eyes
And I wanna scream that I still love you
But you're not there, I got to realize

It is now High Noon in China
With the same stars up above
The one I need has left me and gone now
And all I have is a little picture of
The truest one I've ever known now
Is the love I lost and still I love
