CLOCK MACHINE, In the Flames in the flames while i'm starring at the photograph i can see all the wasted past in the flames child i thought you were mine and now i know that i was wrong i've got to move on i'm free man on the run i tried to figure it out but it went out of control and i'm kind of man that forgives only once in the flame i will rise you were the reason i was walking blind now you know that feeling how to be ten feet under the ground i could not find the reason why you were searching for more freedom and now i know that it was big mistake but i'm afraid it's little bit too late when i took you to the garden i didn't mean to hit you with hammer and now i know that i made mistake and i'll be burning

in the flames hey now the flames to hell when i'm looking in the mirror now there's a devil in my eyes flames child i thought you were mine and now i know i that wrong. i got to live on
