

Close Your Eyes, Paper Thin

Take these words and sing them for me They fill up all these pages I have been writing in But lately they are becoming So paper thin So paper thin

These pages turn; They're full of empty words I tear them out just to start it again and still I lie awake at night Unsure of what is to come I am coming undone

give me the melody that my heart longs to sing Now I am starting to see That this fire you stir inside
Is greater than I know

All this time
I tried to sing a song that my ears had never heard with words I could not speak.

You are the one That gives me words That shine a light into darkness and gives strength to the hopeless My words mean nothing unless they come from You Who sang the stars into place and whispered life into my soul.