

Connells, Another Souvenir

(Doug has a vocal spliced into the song. The word he sings is: "divided.)

i see you down in the back of the bar.
accompanied and comforted, by what you are.
and there's a place in the back of your mind and you'd give anything to leave it behind cause it's where you reside.

and i watch you stir around 'cause it keeps me busy.
always willing to take the time so it won't just waste away.
and it's tearing you apart, i watch the pieces scatter
pick one up and look around for another souvenir.

i've been trying to pin you down your bound to spot something that i shouldn't see.
i've got a private view of this, and this i've seen before and wouldn't miss, 'cause it's something to do and i watch you stir around 'cause it keeps me busy.

always willing to take the time 'cause it tends to waste away.
and it's tearing you apart, let's watch the pieces scatter.
i'll pick one up and look around, maybe i'll meet you down...

yeah we watch you stir around and it keeps us busy.
always willing to take the time so it won't just waste away.
and it's tearing you apart, we'll watch the peices scatter.
pick one up and poke around for another souvenir.

yeah we watch you stir around and it keeps us busy.
always willing to take the time 'cause it tends to waste away.
and it's tearing you apart, watch the peices scatter.
pick one up and look around for another souvenir.

i see you down in the back of the bar, accompanied and comforted