

Crushead, Come To Rest

when the night falls, when the lights go down and moves get low when the stars shine and the day is almost at its end when I come home, and my head is full of things and thoughts that I can't get out and i don't know what tomorrow will be i am reaching out to you and I will never stop that feeling for you everything that moved me today i lay into your hands take all of my thoughts don't leave me alone let me come to rest

i am worrying `bout the next day and the things that may be and the people who do not care, do not see but what you teach me is greater than all this `cause you`re the one who will always be in touch with me we do not have to care about the next day the next day cares for itself your promise stands and always will you`ll never leave us alone
