CueStack, Through the Night (feat. David Hassell

It's time to rise up
Take back control
So dark is the night we face
But we won't face it alone

We stand undivided
We will never fade away
Our walls might shake
They won't collapse
As a new down lights this day

When darkness falls not all light is fading I will be the one always waiting For you to find the faith you need

To fight for what you truly believe in Find the voice that guides you from within Become the flame that burns in me

Through the night forever Through the night we ride until down is in sight
