Darren Hayes, Where You Wanna Be

Hey there stranger Do you remember?

You were a part of my life

Early December

Think I remember?
Sentiment cuts like a knife

The seasons are changing

Life's rearranging

Full of could have dones

Would a have beens

It's all your fault

And where've you been

And how times goes

And though I don't even know

How to fill in the spaces

of the love you've erased in my life

Are you where you wanted to be?

Did you get there easily?

Did I make you sacrifice?

Did you make a sharp left

When you should have turned right?

Are you where you wanted to be?

Did you sell off all of your gold

Did you trade it in?

Did you wait for love

Or settle for somebody to hold?

And barely symphonic

But strangely ironic

Moments contained in one glance

Oh how I adored you

But now I'm ignored by you.

Nowhere a tint of romance

And now it's vaguely familiar

I think I remember sharing every single intimacy

It doesn't seem so strange to me that we barely entertained

Even the politest of phrases

But sometimes at night

I conjure you up in my mind.

Are you where you wanted to be?

Did you get there easily?

Did I make you sacrifice?

Did you make a sharp left

when you should have turned right?

Are you where you wanted to be?

Did you sell off all of your gold

Did you trade it in?

Did you wait for love

Or settle for somebody to hold.

While I was busy

Perfecting the art

Of deflecting compliments

I took it too far

And I let a ripple run right through my heart

Of battle stations we're building

You and I just grew apart

We grew apart

While I decided

To make everyone else happy

I just put aside

My foolish pride

I guess I denied

My own desire

Lwas too busy pleasing

To ever be pleased

I forgot how to breathe Or question anything Or ask why? Am I?

Am I where I wanted to be?

Did I get here easily? Did I make a sacrifice? Did I take a sharp left

When I should have turned right?

Am I where I wanted to be? Can I sell off all of my gold?

Can I trade it in? Will I wait for love

Or settle for somebody to hold. I'd settle for somebody to hold now

You know that I've been up and I've been down

I've been picked up and spun around

I'd do it all again

If I could just have somebody to hold now I just need somebody to hold me now Could somebody hold me now? I just want somebody to hold me now I'd do it all again
