

Daughter, Shallows

Let the water rise, let the ground crack
Let me fall inside lying on my back
Lying on my back

Dry your smoke stung eyes, so you can see the light
You're staring at the sky watching stars collide
Watching stars

If you leave when I go, you'll find me in the shallows
If you leave when I go, you'll find me in the shallows

When the time comes on the last day
When they start to come down, will you just, will you run away?
Will you run away?

Let it all rain down from the blood stained clouds
Oh come out, come out to the sea my love and just drown with me
Drown with me

If you leave when I go, you'll find me in the shallows
If you leave when I go, you'll find me in the shallows

Lying on my back watching stars collide
