

David Hudson, Chained

you were a hit and run I never could've known beautiful and bright with a heart like gold time ticked and I kicked the dust from my eye your heart was a stone where all darkness lie

I wanna run from you not feeling like I should but thats just what you do I'm trying to let go let loose but with that grip that you got theres not much I can do well i wake myself up trying to walk away from what i feel

since a boy you've been there holding out holding out for the steal

and now you've got me right where you want me do what you do then let me loose to find another you baby

oh I said no so let go but I wont
