Dawid Podsiadło, BRIDGE

It?s like all that I?ve learned
Doesn?t matter anymore
Your heart I have broken
And left it exposed
I trusted a moment
Haven?t thought this through
Thousand pieces of our own love
They will never bloom

The other side looked so much better She was wearing a smile when I met her

This bridge is my own fault
I felt locked in a cage and decided to go
Chasing freedom that I thought I?ve lost
I just wasn?t ready to admit I was wrong
But when I tasted the new world
I found out the cage was a place I belong

All that I?ve learned
Doesn?t matter anymore
I?ve gathered your feelings
They?re here in my arms
Can you see I have changed?
Does it even matter to you?
I?m a fool to believe so
But it?s the last thing I have got

The other side seemed so much better I wish I hadn?t seen the smile when I met her

You told me I should be alone
Hide in a place where it?s dark and it?s cold
Second chances aren?t here no more
I used all of those very long time ago
Now there?s only this to say
I miss you everyday

I miss you everyday