

Depeche Mode, Home

here is song
from the wrong side of town where I am bound
to the ground
by the lonilest sound
the pounds form within and is pinning me down

here is page
from the emptiest stage a cage or the heaviest cross ever made a gauge of the deadliest trap ever laid

and I thank you
from bringing me here
for showing me home
for singing these tears
finally I've found
that I belong here

the heat and the sickliest sweet smelling sheets
that cling to the backs of my knees and my feet
but I am drowning in time to a desperate brat

and I thank you
from bringing me here
for showing me home
for singing these tears
finally I've found
that I belong here

feels ike home
I should have known
from my first breath

and I thank you
from bringing me here
for showing me home
for singing these tears
finally I've found
that I belong here