

Diamond Rings, I'm Just Me

When I had a young heart
I got a late start
I was too afraid to love
Afraid of my body
Or anybody
Thinking of what I thought of
Now I'm growing older
I'm getting bolder
Confident in my own skin
I just want to come through
I want to come too
I just want to let you in

Hold me underwater
Teach me how to breathe
I'm no son or daughter
I'm nothing just me

Hold me underwater
Teach me how to breathe
I'm no son or daughter
I'm nothing just me
I'm just me
I'm just me

Your love is a warm cloak
A trail of thick smoke
Leading me towards the fire
All I want are your lips
Redder than rose hips
Sleeping next to my desire
Show me what to live for
And how to give more
Because of you I believe
You and I can foment
The perfect moment
Free dimensionality

Hold me underwater
Teach me how to breathe
I'm no son or daughter
I'm nothing just me
I'm just me
I'm just me
I'm just me
I'm just me

All that I ever want is more
More of what I have never had
All that I ever want is more
More of what I have never had
All that I ever want is more
More of what I have never had
All that I ever want is more
More of what I have never had before

Hold me underwater
I'm no son or daughter
I'm nothing just me
I'm just me

Hold me underwater

I'm no son or daughter
I'm nothing just me
I'm just me
