

Diane Cluck, Heat From Every Corner

careful
morning is coming
morning is coming
stay the hell away from the sun

my love fell asleep
uncovered last week
she was burnt away by the sun

merciless and driving
heat from every corner
merciless unending
heat from every corner

the hand that pitches horseshoes hitting ringers in the sun the horse will recall like his shoes when all the gaming is done and hear me hitting ringers i will pitch until i'm gone the sundial shadow of a stallion stretches out long across the lawn

and driving
heat from every corner
merciless unending
heat from every corner

careful
morning is coming
morning is coming
stay the hell away
from the sun

careful
morning is coming
stay away from the sun