

Dolly Parton, I Want To Be What You Need

Mhm when you're not strong and need someone to lean on

Let me be your strenght when you're weak

When you need somebody to comfort and love you let mine be the arms that you seek

I want to be what you need whatever it is come to me

You'll always know where I'll be cause I want to be what you need

When life gets to be more than you can endure my hand is always in reach

And I'm always waiting and I'm always willing to give you whatever you need

I want to be what you need...

Yes I want to be what you need
