Donna Summer, Any Way At All

We never know where the winds of love will carry our hearts unfold into the hands of time nothing will ever change this love we share no matter what it takes I will be there

When the sun goes high you pray for clouds to break Reach up to the sky and pray for it to rain when the times get hard you rely on your faith will be together if there's any way at all it there's any way at all

don't be afraid cause we're in this love together will ride the waves
'til we reach the other side your love is life to me none can compare no matter what it takes I will be there

When the sun goes high you pray clouds to break

If there's any way at all we'll be together baby if there's any way at all we'll be together forever and ever

Reach up to the sky and pray for it to rain when the times get hard you rely on your faith will be together if there's any way at all if there's any way at all

If there's any way at all...
