

Draconicon, Fiery Rage

Light has all gone
All we hear is silence
Silent ice in us

Win every fight, drown our blades in the blood of men
Anything is prey to our madness

Furious hurricanes like waves of wilderness
The shade of sanity is gone, lost so long ago
The world is now for us a battlefield
Beware the spells we cast, you warriors
A nightmare that will burn!

Raging from within all we hear is just the song of the screams
Riding evil winds, we will bring destruction and turn your world to sand!
Spreading wicked wings, we shall be the dark that covers the earth
Crimson in the mist, blackened by the power of the dragon king!

The thirst never quenched
By the cruellest of deeds
Chasing glories that'll never be enough for us

Fearless thunderstorms like tides of bitterness
The rays of light and hope are gone, lost so long ago
The world reshaped by us with blood and steel
Behold the wasteland, you warriors
The end that you will yearn!

Raging from within all we hear is just the song of the screams
Riding evil winds, we will bring destruction and turn your world to sand!
Spreading wicked wings, we shall be the dark that covers the earth
Crimson in the mist, blackened by the power of the dragon king!

Raging from within all we hear is just the song of the screams
Riding evil winds, we will bring destruction and turn your world to sand!
Spreading wicked wings, we shall be the dark that covers the earth
Crimson in the mist, blackened by the power of the dragon king!