

Dream Theater, Fall Into The Light

reaching under water memoeries dissipate eyes Begin to open darkness drifts away time and space like roses whose pedals drop and fade and fall into the light as it dreams of yesterday too much love is not enough for us I was once too blind to see

there is nothing scared only heaven knows sop time to watch the sun look into your soul

too much love is not enough for us
I was once too blind to see
too much hope will never be enough it's become so clear to me

too much love is not enough for us
I was once too blind to see
too much hope will never be enough
it's become so clear to me