Dream Theater, Invisible Monster

When you face the creature That waits beneath your bed Will you stare into its eyes or look away?

Running toward the fire Or fleeing from the flame The choice to seek or hide is yours to make

The smeprnt inside
Wrrapping its tail around my neck
I am burried alive
Dying tpo take another breayh

Invisible monster A;ways felt but never seen Unwelcome presence refusing to leave Invisible monster

Hiding, never showing its face Feeding on irrational fear Thoughts race at a feverish pace Soaring on a flight of ideas

Perched on its victim's shoulder Whispering in its ears Things that may never happen Worries too much to bear
