

Dreams Of Sanity, Kom

walking through the unknown woods the angels fell asleep (That night) but my steps were firm and strong (as they were) in the light of day i held my eyes straight in the dark to scare the beasts that cross my way there'll never be a winding road that stops my quest and ends my prayers ref: i know until the judgement day when all the seas go dry there will never be another one who's lonelier than i i saw (the) inferno and (the) paradise i saw the beast and heard its lies i heard the sirens sing their songs i still don't know my way i wandered as i always did a sphere of darkness followed me as i saw a clearing light that marked the end of all (my journeys) ref

and as i entered the place of light a bird appeared before my eyes and it twittered brightly into my ear "Your aim is death, your grave stands here!" so i lie down in the grass relax my arms my feet my heart the burdens of my quests are one now i know where i belong!

now i know my way